In the case of a tie, the voting process will be repeated amongst the group of candidates with the highest number of votes until a winner is chosen.

In the case that an excomm member severely fails to fulfill their expected duties, they may be removed by an impeachment vote. Two-thirds (2/3) of the members who show up to vote must vote for impeachment for the officer's removal, and voting will be carried out using the same process used to elect excomm members. Any vacancies in the executive committee shall be filled by an election at the next meeting, following the same protocol used to elect excomm members at an election meeting.
